Blyburg Items in Winnebago Chief: Jeff Taylor, of Emerson, motored through the Burg one day last week with the same old smile he always wore. Every thing looked natural to Jeff. There were just as many bottles along the road as ever, only some of the quart bottles were clear out of Jeff's knowledge. Nevertheless, the big bottles made Jeff right at home. Jeff came from Scotland and he still loves to see the glass go.

Emerson Enterprise: Chas. Rockwell and family spent the week-end in Homer at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Rockwell's parents... Marion Wigle was brought home from the hospital in Sioux City Tuesday afternoon. John Watson went up in the morning and accompanied him home... At the James Hogan farm sale near Hubbard last week, conducted by Cols. A. Ira Davis and J. P. Kerwin, a record was established for high priced milch cows. Four cows brought $500.

Lyons Mirror: Frank Haase, of Emerson, republican candidate for state senator, was in Lyons Friday. We have known the Haase family of Dakota City for more than 50 years and we remember of setting the type announcing Frank's birth. His father, Augustus T. Haase, built the first Lutheran church ever erected in Nebraska at Dakota City, which is still in use there, the oldest church of any denomination now standing in the state. Mr. Haase has many qualifications to make a first-class state senator.

Sioux City Journal, 9th: Mrs. Mabel Harvey and Miss Ida Orr, of South Sioux City, were guests this week in the D. C. Stinson home... D. Finnerty, W. H. Orr, George Wilkins, William Clapp, F. Forrest, Bert Wood and Bert Hardin, of Dakota City, Neb., visited this week with Dr. D. C. Stinson, who is ill at his home, 4501 Grant avenue... Miss Ruth Kline, whose marriage to Mr. Harold Bridenbaugh will take place April 19, was the honored guest at a matinee party given by Miss Helen Warfield. The hostess' mother, Mrs. Roy M. Warfield, and Mrs. Richard M. Stillwell, of Hannibal, Mo., chaperoned the party. As a conclusion of the entertainment tea was served at the Olympic at one table appointed in spring flowers and pretty place favors.

Omaha Daily Bee, 9th: Owners of lands aggregating over $200,000 in value have filed suit in federal court to stop the proposed construction of a drainage ditch near Jackson, in Dakota county. The plaintiffs are the Woodlawn Trust and Savings bank, Joseph Winterbotham and Charles B. Vernoo, and the defendants are Drainage District No. 2 of Dakota county, Nebraska, and the Board of Supervisors, Jacob F. Leamer, John F. Daley, Fred Bartels, Glenn Armour and Charles Maxwell. The drainage commission was organized to construct a ditch to intercept the waters of Elk and Honey creeks, which carry the drainage of over 120 square miles of hill lands, and to direct these creeks so as to carry the water from a low tract southeast of Jackson. The plaintiffs claim that the proposed ditch, if constructed, will cause the water in Jackson lake to overflow upon the plaintiffs' lands and will cause other damage. They ask an injunction.

Sioux City Journal, 7th: Farmers of Dakota county, Neb., have commenced an organized fight against smut, which annually destroys thousands of bushels of oats, and against seab and blight, which render a large percentage of the potato crop unmarketable. In their efforts to eradicate the evils the farmers are receiving the aid of O. H. Beckhoff, county agricultural agent, who yesterday conducted demonstrations at the Elmer Blessing farm, near Coburn. The demonstrations were witnessed by farmers from Jackson, Dakota City and South Sioux City, it being the first test of the kind in the eastern part of the state. Oats and potatoes are the chief products of many of the farmers in the county. The demonstration with regard to oats was to show how to make certain that the oats to be used for seed this spring have not the slightest taint of smut. This is done by the formaldehyde method, which Mr. Beckhoff explained. If ordinary care is taken he assured the farmers that the seed will enter the ground without the slightest chance of smut developing. The treatment of seed potatoes to prevent seab and blight is similar to that of oats, with the exception that the potatoes are dipped in a solution of formaldehyde diluted with water. It is planned to hold similar meetings through the county.

Sioux City Journal, 8th: The election of Mayor-elect D. G. Evans and of Councilman Ed Metz, of the Third ward in South Sioux City, will not be contested in the courts of Dakota county, Neb. A. B. Cowrie, defeated mayoralty candidate, and John Jenkins, who lost out for the council by one vote, have decided not to ask for a recount. The decision was made known yesterday to Mayor C. J. Kloster, who will retire from the office in May. Mr. Jenkins said he was satisfied that a recount at least would entitle him to a tie with Councilman Metz, but had concluded that the office was not worth a long drawn out court fight. In view of the fact that the city council has sealed the returns, that body will make no move unless ordered to turn over the ballots to the county court. A special meeting of the city council was to have been held last evening, but had to be abandoned because of the lack of a quorum. Mayor Kloster said that he will call another session for Monday night. Members of the new council will not assume their duties until May. The wets of Dakota City, Neb., have decided not to contest the election in which the liquor vote resulted in a tie, according to Attorney George Leamer, of Dakota City. The liquor forces of that town threatened to file contest papers demanding a recount of the liquor votes on the ground that the election judges erred. Mr. Leamer stated that he conferred Thursday with several of the liquor leaders and it was decided not to bring action. A fight would involve too much litigation, he said. Mrs. M. N. Compton, 1919 Sherman street, East Morningside, yesterday denied that her granddaughter, Miss Lottie Robertson, of Dallas, S. D., was married to Addison A. Randall, who formerly operated a grocery near 1700 South Lynn street. A license was issued to Addison A. Randall to marry Miss Robertson by Harold W. Henderson, a clerk in the district court clerk's office, on April 1. The address of Randall was given as South Sioux City and his age at 22 years. Miss Robertson's age was given as 19 years. Ray Smith, 28 years old, of South Sioux City, was the witness who signed the marriage record that the contracting parties were of age. Shortly after the appearance of the license in the newspapers Randall went to Dallas. He had a meeting with Earl Robertson, father of Miss Robertson. As the result of the conversation Randall hurriedly left Dallas, according to Mrs. Compton. No return of the marriage license has been made to the clerk's office. Miss Robertson lived in Sioux City with her grandmother up to a year ago, when she went to Dallas to join her father, who conducts the hotel there. An investigation of what appears to be an April fool joke will be made by County Attorney O. T. Naglestad, it was stated. The facts were laid before that official by Clerk of Courts J. A. Johnson. An effort is being made to find Smith.

A Word for Nels Johnson

The following article is reprinted from the Oakland Independent: Oakland, Nebr., Mar. 28, 1916. Editor Independent:

I note with pleasure your announcement of your determination to support Nels Johnson in his canvass for the nomination for state senator from the Sixth district. I am reminded in this connection of the time when Mr. Johnson entered the race as candidate for the legislature for the first time. In introducing the candidate to the voters of Burt county I wrote at that time: "He is a man who will never be owned or bulldozed by any machine of state or county extraction. He is clean and able. He has the moral courage and the back bone that is the most palpable need of the present time in the state house. In all, he is a candidate Burt county need not be ashamed of and for whom every voter who favors a clean, high-principled, and, above all, a do-something legislature will support." "Mr. Johnson's candidacy was an afterthought. Likewise it was a happy thought. It was unpremeditated by Mr. Johnson. The thought of him came as an eleventh hour inspiration. Now, this section has not furnished a candidate for a number of years. Therefore this section is entitled to the selection of a candidate in this instance. Mr. Johnson filed only upon the earnest solicitation of his friends. He was the precise man for the precise moment." "As a Burt county man Mr. Johnson will have the interest of the farmers at heart. As one who lives in the city will have at heart the material welfare of those who live in the city. As he is young and strong he will be useful in the legislature. As he represents what the Independent represents, the Independents want him for a candidate. If the republican party is on the square and wants a candidate who will be a source of strength to it, it will make no mistake by naming Nels Johnson as its candidate." Mr. Johnson was elected, and his subsequent record in the legislature and as a public servant vindicated the judgment of the Independent. He made good and fostered and supported progressive measures throughout the session of which he was a member. He kept free from "entangling alliances," and proved himself trustworthy and efficient. In local affairs has been sane and conservative and has proved himself useful in all his official capacities. I have not always approved of Mr. Johnson's course of action and our opinions on various questions have been at wide variance. That, however, is immaterial. In fact, it is this divergence of opinion in which is embodied the security of our institutions. For out of it comes the ultimate and proper course of action in affairs of state and nation. Therefore I see fit to disregard disagreements on questions not at issue in a campaign such as this to endorse Nels Johnson as the man for the job. Yours very truly, A. Theodora Sahlberg.

McKELVIE FOR GOVERNOR.

He Will Win.

The candidate for governor who at this time is generally looked upon as a sure winner is S. R. McKelvie, publisher of the Nebraska Farmer. He is young and active, clean and honorable, knows from a lifetime spent in the state what the needs of the state are, has an exceptional record as a successful business man, has a splendid record as legislator and lieutenant governor, and he has made a clean, high class campaign which should command the respect of all thoughtful voters. These are some of the reasons why he is generally referred to as The Popular Candidate.
